

DAVENPORT TO GET MAJORITY OF OVER 5,000

Leads Sulzer Safely in 45 Counties for Progressive Nomination.

WADSWORTH DEFEATS CALDER BY OVER 4,000

With practically 600 election districts up-State late in their returns of New York's first direct primary, figures coming late last night showed that Frederick M. Davenport would win the Progressive nomination for Governor over William Sulzer. Sulzer, however, was vigorously claiming the nomination and asserting that if he did not get it he would lose it through fraud.

The returns in New York city gave Davenport, 7,660, and Sulzer, 7,002; while 2170 election districts outside the city, out of a total of 8,178, gave Davenport a total of 6,886, and Sulzer, 6,404.

The count for the districts heard from, according to the figures, was, Davenport, 14,446; Sulzer, 12,406. By those figures, Davenport's plurality was 2,148. Reports, partly estimated, from forty-five counties, put Davenport's plurality at 5,740.

There seems no doubt that James W. Wadsworth has been selected as the Republican candidate for United States Senator by a majority of from 10,000 to 20,000, though some of his friends last night put the plurality at a still higher figure.

His consistent majorities in most of the counties up State put him far ahead of William M. Calder, who in New York city and Long Island made showing that at first led many to believe Calder would be the victor. David Jayne Hill was a poor third.

In Greater New York Wadsworth got a total of 9,262, while Calder ran up 3,828 and Hill only 5,802. The story up State for Wadsworth was much different, and leaves no doubt about his triumph.

At a late hour last night 2,800 election districts outside of New York city gave him 61,000, while Calder got only 28,000, and Hill about 22,000. Estimates by friends of Wadsworth ran his plurality up to 28,000, but all the counties have not been heard from, so far as definite figures go.

With only 600 districts missing at midnight, Wadsworth's lead over Calder was 4,120.

Gov. Glynn showed John A. Hennessy under. Late returns showed that his plurality over Hennessy is at least 12,200, while Glynn's vote in Greater New York was 101,582, while Hennessy got 33,575, with twenty-nine election districts still to be heard from.

Charles S. Whitman's nomination is made secure by a plurality of at least 12,000 over Hinman. The total votes in New York city for the three Republican candidates for Governor, with 12 election districts missing, was as follows: Whitman, 24,241; Hinman, 5,822; Hedges, 7,617. Hinman, however, ran ahead of Hedges up-State.

James W. Gerard had a greater lead over Franklin D. Roosevelt than was at first estimated. His plurality last night amounted to 13,560. The vote for him in New York city was equally emphatic. Gerard got 7,640; Roosevelt, 23,363, and McDonough, 7,688.
